

For Immediate Release

St. Thomas University chooses Point of Presence Technologies to deliver Voice and Data services for its student residences

TORONTO, Ontario—July 4, 2007—Point of Presence Technologies (PofP) has been awarded the opportunity to provide High Speed Internet Access (HSIA) and voice services for the student residences of St. Thomas University in Fredericton, New Brunswick.

St. Thomas University ranks among the top undergraduate universities in Canada. Nationally recognized as a leader in liberal arts education, St. Thomas offers programs in arts, education, social work, criminology, gerontology, and journalism.

In order to provide students with voice communications, PofP will implement its VoIP service offering — PopTalk — which has been tailored to the needs of St. Thomas' students. Besides standard phone service, it includes advanced VoIP features such as voicemail-to-email. Users also benefit from unlimited local calling and have access to some of the lowest long distance rates in the industry.

Students will receive their Internet access through a high availability wireless network that provides them with connectivity to the Internet from anywhere in residence. The PofP-customized system will dynamically assign an equitable share of bandwidth to each student, ensuring a positive Internet experience for both heavy and casual users of the network.

PofP's commitment to high-touch customer service will play a large role in ensuring a positive experience for students, backed by PofP's toll-free 24/7 bilingual technical support for voice and data services.

The network infrastructure is scheduled to be completed during the Summer of 2007 and will go live before students return to school in September.

Point of Presence Technologies specializes in the design and installation as well as the ongoing management and support of public and private Internet access networks, serving over 100 satisfied hotels and student residences across Canada.

– END –

---

Media Contact:

Michael Nourse, Marketing Manager
(416) 979-2092 x.7120 | mnourse@pofp.com